

As Director of HR Operations for the University of Michigan, I had occasion to work closely with Limor on many renovation projects over the years -- from small (creating an executive conference room) to large (creating a whole new space for our MHealthy Department). Limor's creativity knows no bounds. She takes the parameters given, understands the needs of academic office space, and then layers on creative options and solutions that take the space from ordinary to extraordinary. Limor creates spaces that people want to work in and find it easy to work in, while always making the space pleasing to the eye. Her use of colors and textures enhance the space as well. It is always a real pleasure to work with Limor on any project.
